Programme Degree e.g. M.A./M.Com./M.Sc./ M.M.S., etc.		M.A.
Parenthesis if any (Specialization) e.g. History, Human Development, English, etc.		English
Preamble (Brief Introduction to the programme)		Established in 1972, the department offers an M.A. programme that is contemporary, research-oriented and skill-based with an interdisciplinary approach. It incorporates a wide range of texts from world literature, including literatures in English and in translation as well as the allied arts, offering intellectual diversity. A well formulated, contemporized and international level syllabus, the curriculum is designed with the objective to contextualizing and contemporizing literary studies. With the critical re-examination and analysis in a comparative frame of literary and linguistic texts, agencies, locations, productions and reception of texts as its thrust, the syllabus also familiarizes the students with contemporary perspectives in literary criticism and linguistic theories. The course is designed to provide the students with a solid foundation for advanced research as well as equip them with skills that make them valuable in the employment sector.
Programme Specific Outcomes (POs)		After completing this programme, Learner will
	1.	be able to focus on creative and critical texts written in and translated into English.
	2.	be able to critically re-examine and analyze in a comparative frame literary texts, locations, agencies, productions and history of reception of these texts.
